

Becky Manning, SENCo

Becky joined Abbot's Hill School in 2017 as SENCo.

She grew up in Kent where she was educated at a girls' grammar school.

Becky is a graduate of The University College of St Mark & St John where she was awarded a BEd(Hons) with science as a specialism. She went on to teach Reception – Year 6 in Hertfordshire schools.

Becky has qualified and worked in teacher education and teaching English and Mathematics to adults. She studied education and international development and went on to teach in Zimbabwe. She has qualified as a Specialist Teacher and assessor of SpLD Dyslexia and has completed the National Award for SENCos. As a member of the British Psychologists Society, Becky is an approved assessor for access arrangements.

She spent ten years working for Hertfordshire County Council managing a team delivering English and Mathematics support in schools to parents and their children in areas of particular need.

Becky is married to Adrian, a former teacher and Assistant Head, now a Church of England Vicar. She loves travelling and has visited places from the Arctic Circle to Cape Town. She enjoys walking her two dogs and nurturing her garden. She has recently acquired 5 chickens.